Whoever in a protected forest, except as provided in section 20 (2) or except with the authority in writing of a forest officer not below the rank of Assistant Conservator, does any act or thing prohibited in a forest reserve by section 42, shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine of fifty pounds or to imprisonment for six months or to both such fine and imprisonment and in addition thereto may be required by the court to pay a sum equivalent to the fees and royalties payable on any forest produce removed or damaged and also such amount, if any, as the court may consider just as compensation for any damage done. Offences in protected forest.

45. In addition to any pebalty imposed for an offence against the provisions of this Law or regulations made hereunder, the court may order - Additional penalties.

- (a) the forfeiture and disposal, as the court may direct, of any forest produce in respect of which the offence was committed, or any instrument or thing with which the offence was committed;
- (b) the destruction of any farm or plantation made in contravention of section 42 in a forest reserve, or, on the application of the Minister that the produce of the farm or plantation be confiscated and thereafter disposed of in the discretion of the Minister;
- (c) the cancellation of any licence or permit held under this Law;
- (d) that, where no licence or permit has been taken out and the offender should have taken out a licence or permit, a sum equal to the amount of the fees and royalties that should have been paid in respect of the licence or permit be paid to the authority of person who would otherwise have been entitled to such fee or royalty; or
- (e) that a portion, not exceeding one half, of any fine that may be recovered from a person convicted by the court be paid to any person or persons on whose information the offence was detected and proved.

46. (1) Where a person is reasonably suspected of having committed an offence against this Law, other than an offence under section 41, a forest officer, not below the rank of Assistant Conservator may, instead of taking proceedings against that person in court, compound the offence and receive from that person a sum of money by way of compensation for the offence that he is suspected of having committed.

(2) On such payment being made-

(a) the suspected person, if in custody, shall be released and no further proceedings shall be taken against that person in respect of that offence; and

(b) any produce seized as being liable to forfeiture shall be restored and any proceedings pending in court in respect of the same person on the same facts shall be withdrawn.

(3) The officer compounding the offence may then give one of the following directions-

(a) that the full amount of such compensation shall be paid into the Treasury;

(b) that a portion, not exceeding half the full amount of such compensation, be paid as a reward to the informer, and the balance paid into the Treasury.

47. When in any proceedings taken under this Law, or in consequence of anything done under this Law, a question arises as to the ownership of any forest produce, such forest produce shall be presumed to be the property of the Government unless the contrary is proved. Presumption as to ownership of forest produce.

48. It shall be a sufficient defence to any proceedings, civil or criminal, against any forest officer, or other person acting under the directions of the Minister to show that the officer, or that other person, was in good faith, purporting to carry out the provisions of this Law. Defence in proceedings.

49. In any proceedings for an offence against any provision of this Law, the State may be represented by any forest officer not below the rank of Assistant Conservator or by any other forest officer authorized generally or specifically in relation to any particular proceedings or class or proceedings by writing under the hand of a forest officer not below the rank of Assistant Conservator.
